DAILY HISTORIC TOURS

We Bring Savannah's History To Life is not just a slogan...it's our promise. Along with our uniquely personal descriptions of Savannah's rich and spellbinding history, actual historical re-enactors appear from time to time, boarding and walking the aisles of your trolley.

During the day, we bring history to life, but at night, we bring the DEAD to life

GRAVE ENCOUNTERS GHOST TOURS

You can be sure you'll have a night of frights when you hop on Old Savannah Tour's Grave Encounters adventure. Along the way you may be visited by some of Savannah's more notable ghosts, as they weave their tale of demise and condemned to walk this earth forever.

BOO Y'ALL COMEDY GHOST TOUR

For those looking for a little bit of light in the dark side of Savannah, our ghostly guides will take you on a journey through Savannah's haunted past with a twist of humor... you may just die laughing.

Welcome to one of America's most beautiful cities!

Anyone who has been to Savannah can tell you how picturesque and atmospheric it is, and its greatest treasures have been honored in scores of best-of lists. But with a founding unlike that of any other settlements in the original thirteen colonies, Savannah has inner beauty, too. To explore its avenues and contemplate its monuments is to reverse the course of time, and experience a place dreamt up through the lens of Enlightenment principles and the bond between General James Oglethorpe and Chief of the Yamacraw, Tomochichi.

Savannah is known for its architectural gems, stunning squares, rows of stately oaks, cobblestone streets and roundabouts imagined for pedestrians and horse-drawn carriages. But gently overlaid atop these charming and storied foundations are the hallmarks of a chic, cosmopolitan city: a lively restaurant scene, nightlife for everyone, boutiques you won't find anywhere else, wonderfully luxurious hotels and one-of-a-kind bed and breakfasts.

To visit Savannah in the fall is to see a different side of the city. This is when the locals come out to play – the weather is cooler and the city less crowded. Though the days are technically shorter, there is more time to beat the heat and explore Savannah's canopied squares and exquisite avenues. Fall is also the perfect time to take the wonderfully scenic drive out to Tybee Island, known as "Savannah's Beach." Bike, drive or walk this lovely and laid-back island, hang out on the beach and dine on seafood straight from the ocean.

In this issue of Savannah Scene, we feature the delightfully fresh cuisine of Goose Feathers Café, a Savannah staple for over 20 years. We also discover 13 Secrets Jewelry, a shop and gallery that sources directly from artists' workshops around the world.

To guide you toward Savannah's must-sees and dos, be sure to peruse our Dining, Shopping and Activities listings. Also check out our Calendar of Events, which tracks all the events you need to know about. For even more information, visit savannah.com.

We hope you will love Savannah in the fall as much as we do. Enjoy your stay in this extraordinary city!

Upper Factor's Walk is home to four unique stores that are the essence of southern charm and hospitality. SAVANNAH BELLE, SAVANNAH ROSE, FACTORS COTTAGE and MATTER OF FACTORS, locally owned by Lisa & Curt Bolak, have become destinations for both tourists and locals.

Located in a 200 year-old historic building, SAVANNAH BELLE overlooks the Savannah River. Breathtaking views of the ships from the back windows delight customers, as does unusual apparel, shoes, and local art. "My customers tell me, everyday, I have items they've never seen before," said Lisa. Some of those items include handmade shoes from Georgia and all over the world! Every item is handpicked and well thought out.

"People see Lisa as their personal shopper", added Curt. "They keep coming back to see what's new and different." "We've made it convenient," Lisa added. "All of our stores are located on East Bay Street, Upper Factor's Walk. Each shop is special, yet different in its own way. We know you'll enjoy them all."

Telfair Museums presents Sylvia Shaw Judson's iconic sculpture Bird Girl within the context of the history and art of Bonaventure Cemetery. Made famous by Jack Leigh's photograph for the cover of John Berendt's bestselling novel of Savannah, Midnight in the Garden of Good and Evil, Judson's sculpture was moved from the cemetery to Telfair Museums, where it has been enjoyed by visitors for decades. This exhibition connects visitors to the history of Bonaventure, from Mary Telfair's visits to the cemetery in the 19th century to the present day. Goose Feathers Café

Where Old-World Charm Meets Clean, Modern and Efficient

Inside a charming, rustic, 145-year-old building near Ellis Square is an atmospheric spot where guests report feeling transported to a different time and place.

Founded in 1986, Goose Feathers Café is a Savannah institution. But Savannah locals and tourists aren't the only ones that rave about it. It has also been voted one of the Top 10 Georgia Bakeries by Atlanta's Scoutology, made the list of Urbanspoon's "101 Top Breakfast Restaurants," and their bread pudding has been labeled the "South's Best" by Taste of the South.

If the thought of French bread, flaky croissants and bread pudding, bubbly out of the oven and then topped with an apricot glaze, gets your appetite going, wait until you hear what else is on their menu. There is Southern fare like homemade pecan pie; cornbread-jalapeño waffles topped with sausage gravy; and the Bird's Nest with eggs, salsa and cheese grits. Breakfast also features classics like sticky buns, fluffy Belgian waffles and Eggs Benedict. Their pastries – including those airy, buttery croissants – are made fresh each day from scratch. "It all starts with fresh," says owner Michael Meeks. "We make 2,000 croissants by hand every week."

Lunch is also a feast for the senses, with nostalgic favorites such as the Barnard Street Club, made with Black Forest ham, hand-cut turkey, hickory smoked bacon, Swiss cheese and crisp lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers.

Other crowd pleasers include their Honey Dijon Chicken Sandwich, the Chicken Bacon Mushroom Melt and the Smoked Turkey Reuben. Whether you're looking for iconic sandwiches, homemade pastries, desserts for the soul or delicious vegetarian fare, Goose Feathers Café is a must.

But it's not just the food that patrons rave about. Goose Feathers also gets top marks for cleanliness, efficiency and especially its friendly service. Their motto, Michael says, is this: "We are going to treat you like a regular visitor to the café, whether we see you again or not...we treat tourists like locals and locals like family."

Goose Feathers has eat-in and take-out options. It's a pet-friendly café with outside seating, and though there is often a line out the door, it moves quickly. To keep customers and employees safe, Goose Feathers has implemented social distancing, is requiring face masks, is cleaning menus after each use and employs contactless payment. And, since the café bakes fresh daily, handmade pastries are 50% off beginning an hour before closing time!

Goose Feathers Café is open Monday, Thursday and Friday from 7:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 8 a.m.-2:30 p.m.

13 SECRETS JEWELRY

In Search of Wearable Art

Though "13 Secrets" pays homage to Georgia's establishment as the last of the original thirteen colonies, the idea behind it is much more contemporary. Owner Chad Crawford wanted to feature the unique and diverse local and international jewelry designers he'd met in his many travels. Even with Savannah's flourishing art scene, he says, "Art is mostly thought of in the sense of drawings and painting." Crawford felt he could help to elevate the medium and its designers by featuring the work of 25 to 30 artists at once, with new pieces appearing all the time. "We carry a wide range of styles, from edgy to super conservative. We also do a lot of custom work."

It took time to find the perfect spot for the gallery, now nestled in the heart of Savannah's Historic District on Oglethorpe Avenue. The next challenge was to design the space, which "is very different from designing jewelry," says Crawford. "The goal was to create a warm, friendly, welcoming environment where you can walk through and see every artist and piece," a space in which visitors could explore and discover for themselves and ultimately be inspired. Many locals and tourists return again and again to see the continuous additions of stunning, one-of-a-kind works of fine jewelry, high-quality fashion jewelry, traditional, experimental and avant-garde pieces.

A third-generation jewelry designer, Crawford's work has been worn by a number of celebrities, and the Andrew Hamilton Crawford Collection has appeared in Vogue, The Oprah Magazine, Elle and Town and Country. Collaborating with some of the world's finest museums, including the Smithsonian and the Met, he has designed wearable pieces inspired by their collections. "Every piece I do is rooted in some type of history," he explains. "I'm passionate about details."

So, what's next for 13 Secrets?

A second gallery in Savannah!

This time, Crawford carefully selected a location in the Plant Riverside District. This lovingly restored gem overlooking the river is brimming with historic charm, and will surely dazzle a whole new generation of locals and visitors. His choice feels appropriate to the proposed mission of the second space, where Crawford hopes to harness the power of design to infuse new life into his customers' own legacy jewelry so that it, too, can live on.

13 Secrets is back to its normal hours of operation, but has put a number of measures in place to keep visitors safe. The gallery provides hand sanitizer and offers face masks and gloves upon request, uses a UV sanitizer for the jewelry, takes online orders through its website and via Instagram (@13secretssavannah) and accommodates curbside pickup. Customers can also book private appointments at 13secret.com.

The hours of operation for both locations are Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. and Sunday from 12 p.m. to 6 p.m. Come see us!

Carol Otto Cole

(912) 355-4889

www.carolcoleart.com

230 Bull St., E-5 on map. Carol Otto Cole is a Savannah native, who has been inspired by the abundance of natural beauty within a 20-mile radius of her home on Ferguson Ave., and aims to recreate these Southern landscapes typically in oils. She has many years of experience with watercolor, pastels and acrylics as well. Completely self-taught, Carol has continued to accept portrait commissions, as well as developing a love for the painted southern pines, rivers, marshes and farmland. Her paintings have been accepted in numerous juried competitions, and she is the recipient of awards in six states. View her work at The Gallery on Chippewa Square.

Art In Savannah

Savannah's quality of life is unrivaled by any comparably sized city in the South. In fact, part of the appeal of Georgia's First City lies in its surprisingly rich array of cultural offerings from the visual arts to live music.

Savannah is home to more than 40 galleries, the oldest art museum in the South and the Savannah College of Art and Design. Literally thousands of artists, including students and professionals, flock to this city with its history of strong support for the arts. The relationship between Savannah and its creative residents is reciprocal: not only has the city supported its artists, but its artists have played a key role in the city's continued growth and vitality.

Just a quick elevator ride to the upper-level studios in the Franklin Ward North and Franklin Ward South Buildings in Historic City Market is where you will discover a wide variety of original art. Take the time to explore the area and visit with more than 50 artists as they bring the "Art of Savannah" to life – all of which is as unique as the city itself.

The Monuments OF RIVER STREET

There is an unbelievable amount of history up and down Savannah's cobblestone riverfront. And the monuments placed along the river pay homage to our city's past and allow visitors to enjoy their statuesque beauty and symbolism.

A WORLD APART:

The World War II Monument is also known as The Cracked Earth Monument. The two halves of the globe are split, representing the conflict of a world divided. The monument is lit at night, and inside are the names of all who served from Chatham County, a Purple Heart and a WWII Victory Medal. A World Apart is located at the center of River Street, on the west side of the Hyatt tunnel.

THE WAVING GIRL:

Greeting every ship that comes into the Savannah port is the statue commemorating Florence Martus, the waving girl. Between 1887 and 1931, Florence took it upon herself to be the greeter of all the ships in the harbor, waving them down with a white handkerchief or lantern. She was the daughter of an ordinance sergeant at Fort Pulaski, living on Elba Island with her brother and a border collie. Though there are several speculations as to why she waved down every boat, one of them being that she was waiting for a sailor she fell in love with to return, the true reason is still a mystery. The statue is located at the east end of River Street in a grassy area

Massie Heritage Center
(912) 395-5070
www.massieschool.com
207 E. Gordon St., H-6 on map. Massie Heritage Center was named for its benefactor, Peter Massie, who died in 1841, leaving $5,000 for the establishment of a school for the poor in Savannah. The Massie School operated as a public school until its closing in 1974, and is Georgia's oldest school in continuous operation.

near the Marriott hotel.

THE ANCHOR MONUMENT:

This monument was founded by Margaret Campbell, who organized the Port of Savannah Chapter of the Women's Propeller Club. It was built in 1976 and dedicated to all merchant seaman lost at sea.

THE AFRICAN-AMERICAN MONUMENT:

This monument was built in 2002, designed by Savannah College of Art and Design professor Dorothy Spradley. It shows a family embracing with the chain of slavery at their feet. The side of the monument has a powerful inscription by Maya Angelou, a selection of it reading: "We were stolen, sold and bought together from the African continent...Today, we are standing up together, with faith and even some joy." It stands on the east side of River Street, right by the Hyatt tunnel.

WASHINGTON'S GUNS:

These two cannons were presented to the Chatham Artillery by George Washington in 1791, after he seized them from Cornwallis at Yorktown during the American Revolution. The guns were originally named La Populaire and were of French make in 1756. Later, during the Civil War, the guns were buried beneath the Chatham Artillery armory until 1872. They now sit on Bay Street, just to the right of City Hall, next to the top level of River Street.

THE OLD HARBOR LIGHT:

Also known as the Savannah Harbor Rear Range Light or the Beacon Range Light, it was built in 1858 to guide ships into the Savannah Harbor and away from six British ships which were sunk earlier in 1779 to keep French and American vessels away in the Revolutionary War. It was turned off during World War II, but has since been restored twice. It now sits at the east side of Emmet Park.

THE HAUNTED SQUARES OF SAVANNAH

By Andrea Six

Madison Square

Just beyond Madison Square is the ground on which many lives were lost fighting during the Battle of Savannah. Before it was named after President James Madison, rumors of spirits and reports of paranormal activity surfaced. Some say a mass grave for dead soldiers lay in this very location, though there is no confirmation. Anchored by the statue of William Jasper, the square's most common ghost has an eerie resemblance to the sculpture—a solid black shadow in the shape of a full-grown man.

Perhaps even more unnerving is the fact that the Sorrel-Weed House—a home where Matilda Sorrel supposedly committed suicide which has been investigated by “Ghost Hunters” and featured on HGTV’s “If Walls Could Talk” and Travel Channel’s “The Most Terrifying Places in America”—opens on to the square. Also notable is that the Green-Meldrim House is on this square, which was General Sherman’s Headquarters during the Civil War.

Reynolds Square

Yellow Fever’s devastation plagued the early days of Savannah but, just off Reynolds Square, there is rumored to have been a property where malaria patients were committed that included a makeshift crematorium. Legend says victims were wrapped in sheets and burned, right in the middle of what is now Reynolds Square, to keep the disease from spreading. Perhaps that’s why visitors’ photos of John Wesley’s monument feature strange apparitions and spots in the background?

Unsettling stories of torture, suicide and war sulk in the shadows of homes and historic areas all around Georgia’s First City. Though much of the landscape has changed, a few things have not. Some say these things are spirits who won’t leave their places of tragedy, while others say people’s minds play tricks on them. If you’d like to find out for yourself, explore these supposedly supernatural squares in Savannah.

Legend says victims of yellow fever were wrapped in sheets and burned, right in the middle of what is now Reynolds Square, to keep the disease from spreading.

The apparition of James Habersham Jr. has been seen at The Olde Pink House, which opens on to this square; as well as his grandson, who likes to order a beer at the basement bar. (Be careful in the basement, because slave children have been known to play tricks on people down there.)

Wright Square

Today, Wright Square may be a beautifully shaded section of land where guests learn a little history and enjoy a snack from one of the nearby cafés, but it wasn't always a place people wanted to visit. One of Savannah's original squares, this site once held the gallows where many lives were taken.

Memorialized in Wright Square, Yamacraw

Chief Tomochichi was buried here in 1739, but 100 years later, his grave was desecrated by the city to make way for a monument to William Washington Gordon, a prominent politician and president of the Central Railroad and Banking Company. Does it come as a surprise that Tomochichi is still spotted centuries later?

However, it's Alice Riley who has attracted the most attention. As the story goes, she traveled to Savannah in 1733 with her domineering husband and several Irish servants. One year later, her husband was found dead in their home — murder suspected. Alice and one of the servants, Richard White, were missing and when suspicion arose, they were sentenced to death. Though she maintained her innocence, ultimately both were hung and Alice was supposedly left on the gallows for three days.

Savannah's scenic jewels make this historic city remarkably beautiful and unforgettable.

Whitefield Square

Chippewa Square
Bull & McDonough Sts.

Named in honor of the American victory in the Battle of Chippewa during the War of 1812. Chippewa Square is where Forrest Gump's bench was placed during the filming of the movie by the same name.

SAVANNAH'S Historic Squares

NORTH TO SOUTH:

Franklin Square
Montgomery & St. Julian Sts.
Dedicated in 1790, this square is named for Benjamin Franklin, an agent for the colony of Georgia from 1768 to 1778. Just off City Market, this is the northwesternmost square.

Ellis Square
Barnard & St. Julian Sts.
Designed in 1733 and named in honor of Henry Ellis, the second Royal Governor, Ellis Square has recently been restored by the City of Savannah. Here the "Old City Market" was located and merchants sold crops and wares.

Johnson Square
Bull & St. Julian Sts.
A center of activity, Johnson Square was the first square laid out by General James Oglethorpe in 1733. Savannah's largest square is named for Robert Johnson, a close friend of Oglethorpe.

Reynolds Square
Abercorn & St. Julian Sts.
Originally called Lower New Square, Reynolds Square was once home to the Filature, where silkworms were housed in an effort to create silk in the Georgia colony.

Warren Square
Habersham & St. Julian Sts.
Located in one of the oldest areas of the city, Warren Square is named in honor of General Joseph Warren, a Revolutionary War hero, and was added in 1790.

Washington Square
Houston & St. Julian Sts.
Built at the same time as Warren Square, Washington Square once bordered the original Trustees' Garden, where colonists grew a variety of experimental crops. Today it is the northeasternmost square in the city.

Liberty Square
Montgomery between State and York Sts.

Liberty Square was laid out in 1799 and is named in honor of the Sons of Liberty and the victory over the British in the Revolutionary War. Only a portion of the square still exists. It is the site of the Flame of Freedom sculpture.

Telfair Square
Barnard & President Sts.

Laid out by James Oglethorpe in 1733, it is one of the four original squares and was known as one of the more fashionable neighborhoods of the time. Renamed in 1883 to honor the Telfair family, it is the only square honoring a family rather than an individual. It also contains a tribute to the Girl Scouts.

Wright Square
Bull & President Sts.
Originally called Percival Square, Wright Square is also the final resting place for Tomochichi, the Native American leader who helped General James Oglethorpe found the colony of Georgia.

Oglethorpe Square
Abercorn & President Sts.
This square pays homage to General James Oglethorpe, founder of Savannah and the colony of Georgia, and is a perfect place to enjoy a picnic or a shady break.

Columbia Square
Habersham & President Sts.
Taking its name from a popular nickname for the American colonies – Columbia – this square is a tranquil spot away from the hustle and bustle of downtown. Nestled within the northeast quadrant of the Historic District, it is a favorite stop for Savannahians.

Greene Square

Houston & President Sts.

Named after General Nathaniel Greene, a general in the Continental Army and an aide to General George Washington during the Revolutionary War, Greene Square is one of the most beautiful squares in Savannah.

Orleans Square

Barnard & McDonough Sts.

Located near the Savannah Civic Center, Orleans Square commemorates General Andrew Jackson's 1815 victory in the Battle of New Orleans, part of the War of 1812. This square features beautiful red tulips in the spring and a bubbling fountain all year long.

Crawford Square

Houston & McDonough Sts.

Designed in the year 1841 and named in honor of William Harris Crawford, Crawford Square contains part of a nineteenth-century water cistern and features a gazebo. It also offers the city's first paved basketball court for residents.

Pulaski Square

Barnard & Macon Sts.

Pulaski Square is named for Polish Count Casimir Pulaski, a hero of the Revolutionary War, and is one of the few squares without a monument. This square features some of the most beautiful live oaks in the city, as well as thick ivy groundcover.

Madison Square

Bull & Macon Sts.

Named for the fourth U.S. President James Madison, this square features vintage cannons from the old Savannah Armory and a bronze monument of Sergeant William Jasper. The Savannah College of Art and Design originally opened in 1979 on this square.

Lafayette Square

Abercorn & Macon Sts.

Named for French aristocrat and military officer Marquis de Lafayette, this square is home to the ornate Cathedral of St. John the Baptist and features quaint benches and cobblestone sidewalks.

Troup Square

Habersham & Macon Sts.

Troup Square features an armillary, an astronomical centerpiece made of iron, that is supported by small metal turtles. Named in honor of Georgia Governor George Michael Troup, this is one of the most picturesque squares in the Historic District.

Chatham Square

Barnard & Wayne Sts.

This square is home to Gordon Row, a block of 15 identical townhouses admired for their ironwork and unique doorways. Chatham Square is named in honor of the Earl of Chatham, an early supporter of the colony.

Calhoun Square

Abercorn & Wayne Sts.

This square, laid out in 1851, was named in honor of John C. Calhoun, a senator from South Carolina, who served as Vice President under John Quincy Adams and Andrew Jackson. It offers some of the best views of the Wesley Monumental United Methodist Church and the Massie School.

Whitefield Square

Habersham & Wayne Sts.

A popular place for weddings, Whitefield Square has a lovely white gazebo that has hosted countless wedding ceremonies. The square is named for George Whitefield, an English clergyman who founded the Bethesda Orphan Home and served as a minister to the city's earliest colonists.

Monterey Square

Bull & Wayne Sts.

With a statue of Casimir Pulaski at the center, Monterey Square is widely considered Savannah's most picturesque square. The Mercer House, the setting for the murder in Midnight in the Garden of Good and Evil, is located on this lovely square.

SAVANNAH'S HISTORIC CEMETERIES

No visit to Savannah is complete without a visit to the city's historic cemeteries, each of which serves as a final resting place for many of Savannah's most fascinating residents. Each of these cemeteries is situated amid incredibly scenic surroundings.

Even if cemeteries give you goosebumps, you'll be glad you stopped by to experience some of Savannah's unique history firsthand. Just don't stay too long!

BONAVENTURE CEMETERY

Immortalized by John Berendt in his bestseller Midnight in the Garden of Good and Evil, Bonaventure is the final resting place for many of Savannah's most prominent citizens, including songwriter Johnny Mercer (1909-1976), poet Conrad Aiken (1889-1973) and plantation owner Noble Jones (1701-1775), one of Savannah's original settlers who colonized the city with General James Oglethorpe in 1733. Located along the scenic banks of the Wilmington River, Bonaventure Cemetery also features group burials for the American Legion Field, the Confederate States of America, the Order of Railroad Conductors and the veterans of the Spanish-American War.

Originally a 600-acre plantation, Bonaventure was sold for $5,000 in 1846 to Savannah businessman Peter Wiltberger, who turned the land into a public cemetery called Evergreen Cemetery. The City of Savannah purchased Evergreen Cemetery in 1907 and turned it into Bonaventure Cemetery.

Savannah photographer Jack Leigh captured the image that graces the cover of Midnight in the Garden of Good and Evil — a burial statue, nicknamed The Bird Girl, that once stood in the heart of Bonaventure Cemetery. The Bird Girl statue is currently on display at the Telfair Museum of Art.

HOW TO GET THERE: Bonaventure is located just off Pennsylvania Avenue on Bonaventure Road.

HOURS: Open daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

COLONIAL PARK CEMETERY

Colonial Park Cemetery is the city's only non-active cemetery, meaning that no more burials take place on this historic plot of land, located at the corner of Abercorn Street and Oglethorpe Avenue.

Walk through the graceful arch erected by the Daughters of the American Revolution, and you will discover a window into Savannah's rich past. Many of Savannah's earliest settlers are buried in Colonial Park, and their gravestones date back to the 1700s.

Today, Colonial Park Cemetery serves as a park for many Savannah residents. Many Savannahians stroll through the cemetery in the early morning or walk their dogs within the cemetery's wrought iron perimeter in the evening.

HOW TO GET THERE: The main entrance is located at the corner of Abercorn Street and Oglethorpe Avenue.

HOURS: Open daily from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

LAUREL GROVE CEMETERY

Established in 1852, Laurel Grove Cemetery has thousands of graves that reflect Savannah's rich history, situated amid groves of live oak, magnolia and dogwood trees. This contemplative site, which features ornate ironwork and magnificent statuary on many of the lots, was once called Springfield Plantation.

Laurel Grove is divided into two distinct sections by a highway connector. Laurel Grove North, perhaps the better-known part of the cemetery, is the burial place of hundreds of Confederate soldiers, as well as prominent citizens like Juliette Gordon Low, the founder of the Girl Scouts, and Florence Martus, Savannah's Waving Girl.

Laurel Grove South serves as the final resting place for many members of Savannah's African-American community. Many slaves, freedmen and even two African-American Confederate veterans are buried in Laurel Grove South.

HOW TO GET THERE: Laurel Grove Cemetery is best accessed from Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd. Turn right onto Anderson Street and the main gate will be straight ahead.

HOURS: Open daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Savannah Rose

The sign outside reads "The Shop with Attitude." Customers nod in agreement that Savannah Rose has plenty. Savannah Rose is one of four unique stores on Upper Factor's Walk, locally owned by Lisa & Curt Bolak.

"We hunt for items our customers won't see anywhere else," said Lisa. "It has to be amazing to be in here." At this eclectic boutique, shoppers discover exclusive handmade items including teapots, trivets, bowls, lamps and more!

"We've been in business for over 10 years because we value every customer," emphasized Curt. "Without you we wouldn't be here. We are grateful that we can continue to provide a positive shopping experience."

Outfit yourself in style with a gorgeous jacket or vest. There's also a large assortment of hats, scarves, handbags and pins. "We import from all over the world so it's a wonderful eclectic mix of merchandise," added Lisa. "New to the store is beautiful cashmere made in Germany. It's the softest I've seen anywhere. And the prices are fabulous."

"The jewelry is stunning," Lisa continued. "We have so much to choose from featuring antique buttons, and genuine gemstones set in both silver and gold, all sure to become family heirlooms."

If you have an appreciation for the unique coupled with outstanding value, you'll find it at Savannah Rose.

HOROSCOPE September 2020

ARIES Now is the perfect time to go through your (extensive) contacts. Delete those you don't need, rediscover some you ought to check in with, and keep only those that make sense. You will save time in the long run and increase your peace of mind.

TAURUS We all need time alone. That welling frustration you're feeling could be due to a lack of time completely to yourself, answering to no one. If you can manage this, make it happen! As counterintuitive as it sounds, the connectedness we feel in solitude can actually help dispel feelings of loneliness.

GEMINI This month, dispense with one worry. Big, small, nagging, looming – doesn't matter. Do whatever you can to resolve it, and then let it go forever. When you have successfully dissolved this worry for good, repeat the exercise.

CANCER You may be feeling hopeless or distracted this month. The (already elusive) ghost of creativity can feel impossible to pin down right now. Get yourself into uncharted territory—personally, professionally, or physically. The unknown never fails to inspire!

LEO This month, you may be thinking a lot about the fine line between tragedy and comedy. It's OK to rely on humor to get you through dark times. Try putting a comedic spin on things, and let laughter help to heal your wounds.

VIRGO You will always have busy work to fill your day. What about that project you never seem to have time for? This month, make time – even if it's just enough to begin.

LIBRA Are you what you appear to be at first blush? Rarely. Practice authenticity and expect it in others. Also keep in mind that in humans, real perfection doesn't exist.

SCORPIO Need to tap into what makes you tick? Jot down your all-time favorite stories, books and movies. Then, seek out the common threads. You may just discover some surprising things about yourself.

SAGITTARIUS Having things done the way you want is a plus. But are there any other upsides to micromanagement? Watching over others' shoulders ratchets up tension, fuels resentment, cuts down on chances to encourage, and promotes nitpicking.

CAPRICORN This month, pay attention to how often you play The Blame Game. With altered circumstances, your own shortcomings, anything that's gone wrong – blaming others is easy. Real change comes with facing our own inadequacies, and addressing them!

AQUARIUS Location has been a particular struggle for you lately. Take some time this month to consider locations you can control. Whether it's your furniture, your treasured items or workspace, make it work for you and your routine!

PISCES Are you hydrating properly, Pisces? As a water sign, you should know better! Try putting a glass in the kitchen, gulp it down whenever you enter, and fill it again before you leave. Hydration is essential for your joints, organ function, mood, sleep and nutrient allocation. Don't neglect this essential function.

HOROSCOPE October 2020

ARIES Time away from the fray may have weakened your social armor. But you're not alone, here. Just remember that warmth, optimism, and compassion are always in en vogue!

TAURUS The average American household has 300,000 items in it. As a thought exercise, ask yourself: which are the 15-20 things you value most? What do you really need? What's the rest of it?

GEMINI Having someone question your reality can send you reeling. But lately, you yourself have been second-guessing your intuition. Why? Your subconscious is busy processing information you can't even fathom. Don't discount its ability to read the room.

CANCER It's hard to imagine America without apple pie or Italy without pizza, but apples originated in Asia and tomatoes reportedly didn't arrive in Europe until the 16th century. An upcoming change has you spooked. Can you embrace it to become an even better you?

LEO Because of how things were left, there is someone you are afraid to contact. This month, reach out anyway. What's the worst that could happen? Maybe they aren't ready to talk to you. Or they are, and you can finally let go of your angst about it.

VIRGO Another birthday has you thinking critically about your life. Give yourself a grade for the following question: Am I giving my body everything it needs to operate optimally? You are especially off on your sleep routine, even though you know it can wreak havoc. This month, get thee to bed on time and reap all the wonderful benefits!

LIBRA You never know when or where inspiration will strike. Sometimes even the most brilliant projects start with a single thought. This month, make a little extra time for rumination. Be sure to take notes!

SCORPIO Cleopatra lived closer to the invention of the cell phone than to the building of the Great Pyramid at Giza. And suddenly, your perception of her will never be quite the same! To round out your perspective on what's been troubling you, get more information.

SAGITTARIUS A whiff of nutmeg recalls custards, eggnog, and curry. But 2-3 teaspoons of raw nutmeg is toxic. We know that moderation is key—where in your life is there room to transition from extreme to moderate? This month, seek it out!

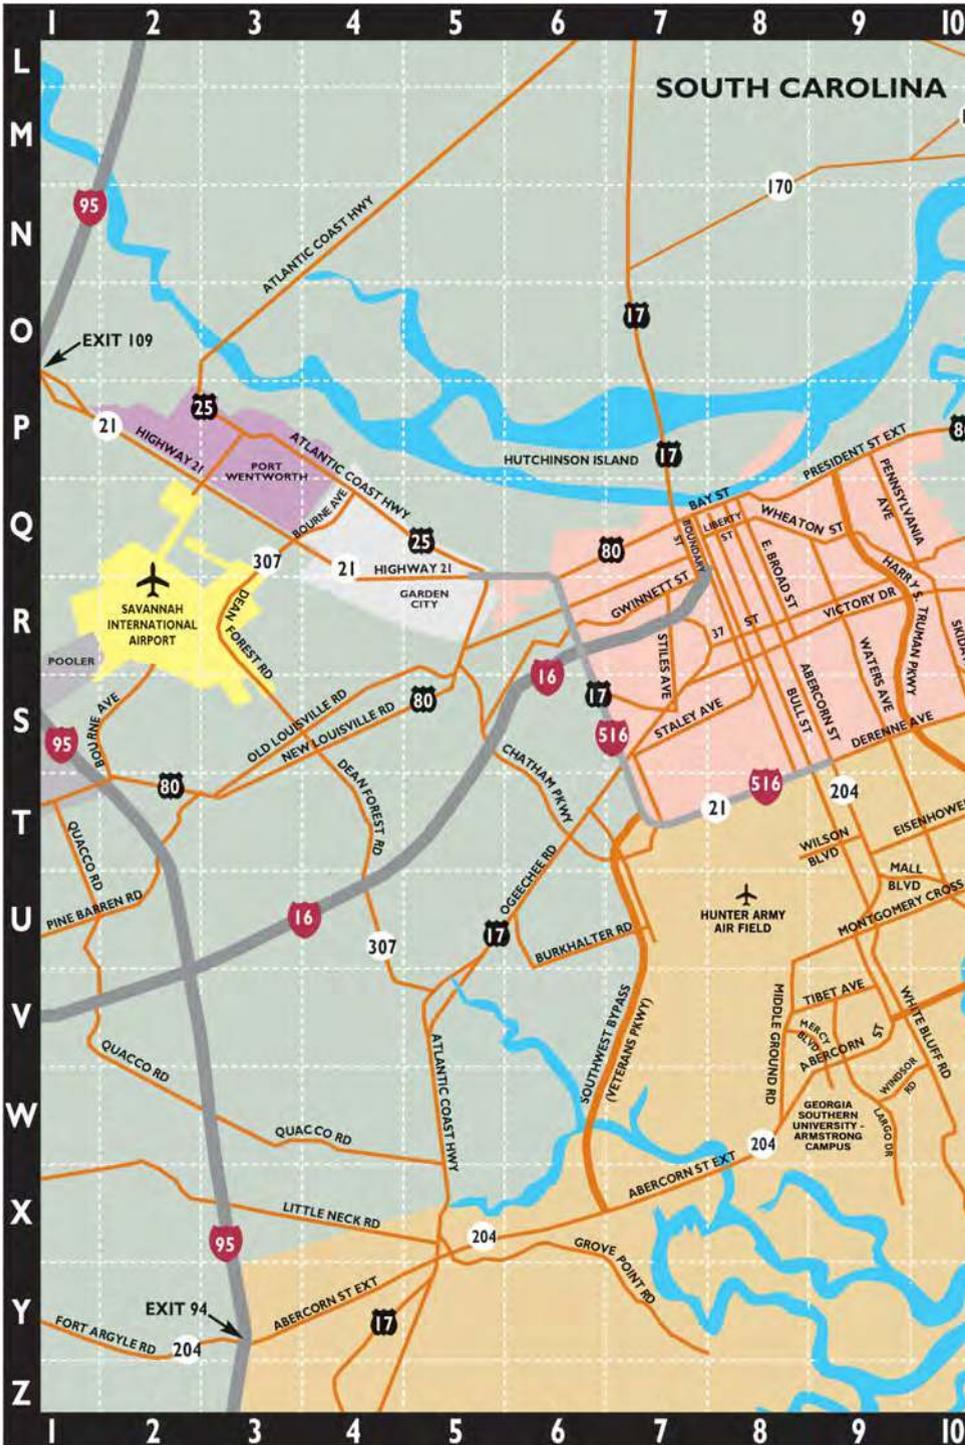

CAPRICORN You long for a great adventure, but what if this is your adventure? This month, work to integrate your reality with a wish dear to your heart. First, zoom in on what you feel is missing. Then, consider what might set you on a path you've always wanted to tread.

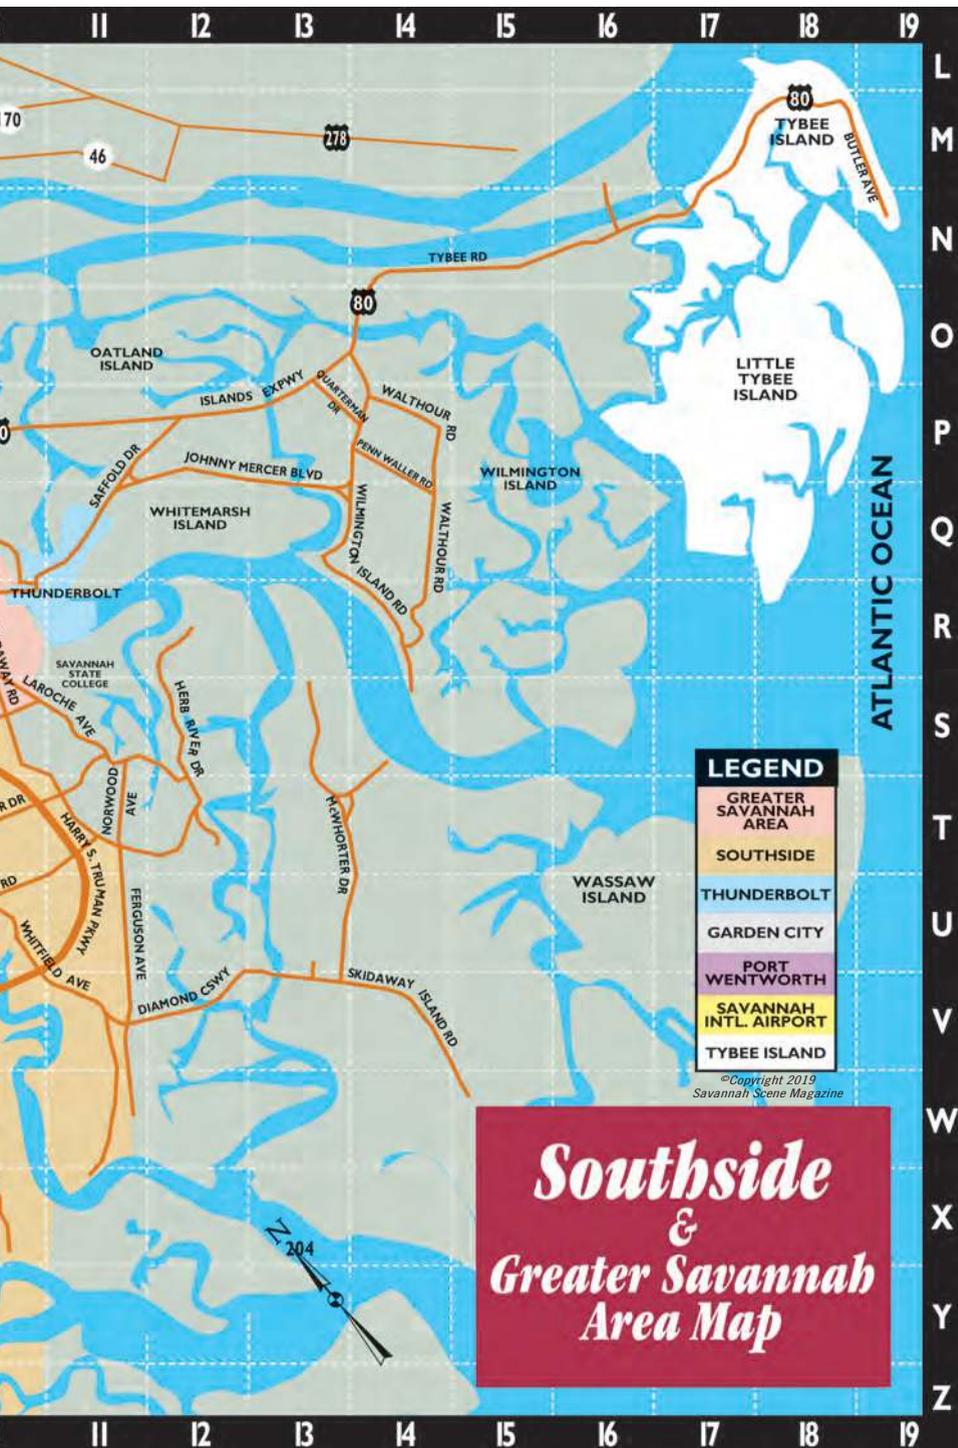

AQUARIUS Children ask an average of 300 questions per day. Are you asking enough questions? Are you tuned in to the answers? The people in your life need your undivided attention, sometimes. Give the gift of your time this month. Bonus: you will really enjoy it!

PISCES The original Superman was not meant to fly, but because animating him in flight was much simpler than drawing his leaps and bounds, he took to the skies! This month, refashion an impediment into an asset. Try it out with an issue you deal with on the daily.
